LOVE - The soil where the fruit grows.

Galatians 5:22-23 NLT

But the Holy Spirit produces this kind of fruit in our lives: love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control. There is no law against these things!

When Paul lists the fruit of the Spirit, he begins with love. That matters. Love is not one fruit among many in the sense that it is just another nice quality to add to our character. Love is the soil where the rest of the fruit grows. Joy without love becomes shallow. Peace without love becomes self-protection. Patience without love becomes tolerance without tenderness. But when love is present, everything else has a place to grow.

Biblical love is not simply affection. It is not just liking someone, being sentimental, or feeling warm in the moment. Biblical love is a decision to seek another person's good because God first loved us. It is a love that sees people through the lens of redemption, not through the lens of their worst moment. That is why blessing matters so much. A biblical blessing is love put into words. It is love that refuses to stay silent.

Many children, grandchildren, athletes, students, and adults are starving for words that tell them they are seen, known, valued, and called. Correction has its place. Discipline has its place. But if correction is louder than blessing, people can begin to believe they are only noticed when they fail. That is not the heart of the Father. When you bless someone with love, you are not flattering them. You are speaking truth over them. You are saying, 'You are not an accident. You are not a burden. You are not defined by your behavior alone. You are deeply loved by God, and I want you to know that love through the way I speak to you.'

Love is often remembered through words. Someone may forget the exact gift you gave them, but they may never forget the moment you looked them in the eyes and said, 'I love you, I believe in you, and I see God at work in your life.' Those words can settle deep into the soul. They can become a refuge when the world gets loud. Today, ask God to make your love more than assumed. Make it spoken. Make it intentional. Make it a blessing.

Reflection Question

Who in your life needs to hear words of love, not just see acts of love?

Spoken Blessing

May you know that you are deeply loved by God. May His love shape your identity, steady your heart, and overflow through your words and actions.
